

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A phosgene-free process for producing organic isocyanates reacts an organic formamide with a diorganocarbonate and thermolyzing the reaction product to obtain the corresponding organic isocyanate. Byproducts may be cycled back to 5 the reaction or recycled to produce additional starting materials. The process produces organic isocyanates in high yield.

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176